No Change in U. S. Policy Contemplated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has reassured the Baghdad Pact countries and the Nationalist China that America support for them is unchanged in the wake of the Eisenhower-Nehru talks last month.

Officials said these and other allied nations had inquired about future U. S. policy after Indian Prime Minister Nehru's four days of conferences with President Eisenhower late in December.

These informants said U. S. ambassadors told the governments concerned that no agreements had been made and no changes in U. S. foreign policy were contemplated as a result of the talks.

This reassurance was reported to have been welcomed on Formosa, the Nationalist China stronghold, and in the four Middle East members of the Baghdad Pact—Turkey, Iran, Iraq and Pakistan. Britain is the fifth pact member.

Officials said some allied countries expressed concern that Nehru might have won Eisenhower over to a view that would weaken U. S. support of the Baghdad Pact and the American mutual defense agreement with Nationalist China.

Six Arrested for Beating Instructor

CAMDEN, S. C. (AP) — Six local men were arrested yesterday in the beating last week of a Camden High School band director they thought favored racial integration. They were Neal W. Seagraves, 22; Homer Wayne Fields, 35; Horace William Frith, 39; Steve D. Broadway, 33; George D. Bigbee Jr., 40; and John Walter McManus, 32.

All six were released from the Kershaw County Jail here last night. Seagraves and Frith, charged with conspiring against civil rights, posted $3,000 bonds each. The other four charged with assault and battery on a highly aggravated nature, posted $4,500 bonds each.

The wife of the beating victim, Guy Hutchins, said her husband knew Frith and "regarded him as a friend." She said her husband did not know the other five men.

State Law Enforcement Division Chief J. P. Storm said neither Seagraves nor Frith actually took part in the beating.

Hutchins said four men, their faces covered by masks attacked him from behind threw a bag over his head tied him to a tree, and severely beat him with a board.

Storm said the men old him the attack was made on Hutchins because of remarks in support of integration he made at a Lions Club auxiliary here two or three years ago. Hutchins denied ever having made such speech.

Two Escapees Found Wet and Hungry from the county jail were found today, wet and cold and hungry, hiding under a concrete bridge about 10 miles outside town.

The pair, Kenneth Ray Ball, 22, of Galesburg, Mo., and Martin Dale Williams, 22, of Ardmore, Okla., surrendered without a struggle when about 15 policemen and volunteer civilians found them.

They escaped from White County jail Wednesday night by slugging the jailer 50-year-old Bill Smith, while they were out for an exercise period.

"The only time they'll get out of jail now is when the prosecuting attorney comes for them," said Sheriff Jack Price.

The two were being held on charges of burglary and grand larceny.

A resident of the area, Albert Howanitz, saw the two men go under the bridge about 9 a. m. He reported to the sheriff and police closed in on the area.

They had a small fire under the bridge and were piling on more wood when police caught them. The men were not armed.

Bloodhounds from the state prison farm led police to the general area where Ball and Williams were hiding. The search was called off last night because of fog and rain. Roadblocks were maintained through the night.

Arabs Urge Bold Plan to Save the Middle East

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Squeezed between two dangerous extremes, moderate Arab leaders are urging bold plans to save the Middle East from disaster.

Their program calls for a security belt between the Arab countries and Israel, and for a redistribution of oil wealth to provide the money that could set them on the road toward stability.

The program implies that they are willing to live with the idea that Israel will continue to exist as a new-found acknowledgment.

Unless the Arab world can rid itself of the idea that Israel presents both a military and economic threat to its future, these leaders say, there is no hope for progress on the road to stability. And without some sort of start on that road, the menace of disaster hangs over the whole area.

There are two extremes in the Arab world—the Communists on the left, spurred on by the Russians and strengthened by the flow of Russian arms into Syria and Egypt, and fanatic Moslems on the extreme right, such as the terrorist Moslem Brotherhood organization.

Moderate leaders, in between these two extremes, say public tempers will not permit them for a long time to discuss anything like a general peace settlement with Israel. What they propose is a chance to turn their backs on that basic problem while an attempt is made to build up their own countries.

Most Arab leaders—even including President Nasser of Egypt—are pictured as willing to concede privately the Israel need not be eliminated as a nation. But, they add, they want security from the sort of attack which burst suddenly late in October and threw the Middle East into an uproar.

These leaders are proposing that the United Nations force, now in Egypt to supervise the cease-fire and withdrawal of invading troops, be increased to at least 12,000 men. These troops would form a belt between Israel and the Arab nations, occupying a narrow strip of land which would become U. N. territory.

Meanwhile, there would be a change in the present disposition of oil profits. At present the Western companies and the producing nations split the profits 50-50. Some leaders suggest a 45-45 split, with the remaining 10 per cent going into a reserve fund to be administered through a U. N.-sponsored Arab nation development bank. The contributing states and companies would be compensated by a rise in the output of oil, and the 10 per cent reserve would provide a fund of millions of dollars a year.

Transit nations—nations through whose territories the oil passes—would be permitted to borrow from this fund for their internal development. Egypt would be considered a transit nation because of the Suez Canal.

One Missing as Rowboat Sinks

MEMPHIS (AP) — The lowboat Frank Phipps went down in the Mississippi River near Rosedale, Miss., last night. One crewman was missing.

The boat, en route from Greenville, Miss., to Memphis with an empty barge and a pilotboat, was owned by Patton-Tully Transportation Co. here.

Frank Phipps general superintendent of Patton-Tully, said his company's boat was under way when the front line broke. The Frank Phipps' engines cut off, swinging across current, flipped over and sank.

The missing crewman presumed drowned, was Fred Pryor, 36, of West Memphis, Ark. He was in the engine room when the accident occurred.

Raymond C. Roberts, a 38-year-old oil exploration engineer at Cosmo Mesa, Calif., and rented the plane at an airport near his home. With him were his business partner Urban N. Hartman 32, of Anaheim, Calif., and their wives Mrs. Leona Roberts 40 and Mrs. Anna Hartman 51.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration said Roberts got his pilot license Dec. 24 and had flown only 24 hours on his own.

Italian Ship Barely Met Safety Rules

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Specialists who investigated the Andrea Doria sinking for a House committee say the Italian luxury liner met "by a very narrow margin" certain international safety standards.

In Geneva owners of the multi-million-dollar vessel disputed this and other findings of panel which conducted the investigation for the House Merchant Marine Committee.

The probe was the outgrowth of the loss of the Doria off the Atlantic coast July 25 after a collision with the Stockholm, a Swedish vessel. The Stockholm was badly damaged, but did not go down. Some 50 persons died.

The investigators, while avoiding placing blame for the incident, said yesterday there were "serious questions" as to whether the Doria and the Stockholm "were being operated in accordance with the precepts of good seamanship and the provisions of the international convention for safety of life at sea."

They said "it is clear from this standard that the operation of the convention did not meet their objectives." According to the specialists recommended that the United States propose steps toward adoption of "more effective standards for construction and operation."

The report was critical of the way the Doria was fitted with watertight compartments aimed at confining flooding to damaged portions of the ship. It said the Doria barely met international standards in this respect. The investigators also said the information they had indicated that the vessel was not properly ballasted, causing her to list badly after the crash.

Reply to these criticisms, the Doria's owners said the liner met fully international requirements on watertight subdivision of hulls. They said further the Doria was built in line with standards set by the British Lloyds Register of Shipping, the American Bureau of Shipping and the Italian Register of Shipping.

On the question of ballasting, the owners said, "The best proof of the positive stability of the ship is seen in the fact that despite the tremendous blow she received the ship was able to remain afloat for 11 hours."

Irving Potash Seized By FBI Agents

NEW YORK (AP) — Irving Potash, onetime top American Communist who in 1953 chose voluntary exile to Red Poland rather than face further government prosecution, was seized by FBI agents last night for illegally re-entering the United States.

Government agents grabbed the 54-year-old Russian-born alien in a Bronxville, N. Y., restaurant, in Westchester County just north of the New York City line. Further details of the arrest were not disclosed.

It was the first official intimation that Potash had returned to this country since he sailed March 4, 1953, for Poland. Since then, he has been reported in various Iron Curtain countries, including Russia and Communist China.

Details of how and when he managed to re-enter the United States were not known.

He is to be arraigned in federal court later today on charges of illegal entry.

Potash was one of 11 top American Communist leaders convicted Oct. 14, 1949, for conspiracy to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the U. S. government. At the time of his conviction, Potash was a vice president of the old CIO International Fur Workers Union.

Given a five-year sentence, Potash was released from the Leavenworth, Kan., federal penitentiary Dec. 9, 1954, after serving three years and five months with time off for good behavior.

He was immediately rearrested on an untried second count of the Smith Act making it illegal to knowingly belong to a party which advocates violent overthrow of the government.

Faced with another five-year jail term if convicted, Potash agreed to voluntary exile to Poland and the government dropped the second charge. The government had been seeking his deportation since 1948.

More Rain Is Outlook for the Nation

By The Associated Press

Cloudy and wet weather was the outlook for most of the nation today.

A fresh surge of arctic air moved southeastward through the northern and central plains and was expected to extend over most of the mid-continent.

Temperatures dropped to near zero in North Dakota and were around freezing in the Central Plains. Light snow flurries fell over most of the Northern Plains and eastward across the upper Great Lakes.

In advance of the colder air, southerly winds spread warmer breezes over wide areas from the Southern Plains and from the Mississippi River eastward to the Southern Plains and from the Mississippi River eastward to the Atlantic Coast. Temperatures ranged from the upper 20s and low 30s from the Great Lakes eastward and 40s and 50s southward and in the 60s along the west Gulf Coast.

Although readings along the Atlantic Coast from Georgia northward to New York were higher than yesterday, it was on the chilly side again with marks in the low 30s. However, warming was forecast through the Gulf and along the Atlantic Coast from the Appalachians eastward.

Much needed rain fell in sections of the Southwest desert region with the heaviest falls, from 1 to 1 inch, in New Mexico. The rain belt extended eastward across Texas and into the lower Mississippi Valley.

Emergency Repairs on Crushed Ship

McMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP) — The crew of an Operation Deep Freeze supply ship made emergency repairs today in the shelter of an Antarctic cape after fighting their 7,400-ton vessel free from the grip of a crushing ice pack.

The captain of the U. S. Navy freighter Arneb messaged that the craft had reached the safety of Cape Hallett. Work was started to patch a gaping hole above the waterline and cracks in the hull inflicted by the blows of monster wind-driven ice floes.

Capt. Nels C. Johnson of Alexandria, Va., reported by radio that ice pressure had damaged both sides of the hull along the full length of the ship but that flooding was under control. One of the Arneb's two propellers also was damaged.

Motorists Set Record for Deaths in '56

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's motorists set an all-time record for highway slaughter in 1956, the National Safety Council says.

The number of traffic dead was placed yesterday at 40,020—231 more than the old record of 39,889 set in 1951, and a 5 per cent rise in the 1955 total of 38,426.

The council said it based its figure on the actual count for the first 11 months of the year, plus an estimate for December. The toll for the first 11 months was 39,000.

The new high culminated an ever-increasing trend in reports of auto fatalities. For 20 months in a row, the trend was upward. It was broken by a surprise drop of 12 per cent in October, but then resumed again in November.

An Associated Press survey indicated the extension of daylight saving time through October in many cities, providing an extra hour of daylight at a time when darkness normally increases evening rush hour hazards, was a factor in the October slump.

The safety council also reported that the mileage death rate was going up, according to its latest check. It said:

"The latest travel figures are for 9 months, and the mileage was up 5 per cent over the same period of 1955. For the 9-month period, deaths were up 7 per cent, resulting in an increase in the mileage death rate—deaths per 100 million miles if travel—from 6 to 6.1."

U. S. Mines Charged With Atoms

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. Mines board ships in the Mediterranean have been armed with "live" atomic military weapons, a reporter for the Scripps-Herald newspapers said today.

Staff writer Jim G. Lucas said his information came in an exclusive interview with Gen. Randolph Pate, Marine Corps commandant, published today in Scripps-Herald newspapers.

He said Pate told him the Sixth Fleet Marines have a "ground atomic capability," explaining that this meant they have atomic warheads for their artillery.

Young Rebel Executed in Hungary

VIENNA (AP) — Budapest radio reported today that a 25-year-old Hungarian rebel against the Communist regime was executed for hiding arms.

This brought the admitted number of rebels executed to six, although the actual number is believed to be much higher.

The broadcast said Gyor Szivos, a teenager, was convicted and sentenced by a military court in Budapest. The Red radio gave these details:

Szivos got hold of an automatic pistol Oct. 30 and joined the rebel group which stormed the Communist party headquarters in Budapest.

He admitted having fired 100 shots at the building, and "several" persons were killed in the building.

On Nov. 4, the day of the Russian assault on Budapest, Szivos obtained two more automatic pistols, ammunition, eight hand grenades and two incendiary bombs.

Tenants in the house where he lived informed on him to the police and he was arrested Dec. 18. The arms were found in his quarters the next day.

The newspaper of Hungarian Premier János Kadar's Soviet-supported government meanwhile, gave new evidence of Kadar's failure to draw support from the rebellious Hungarians.

The paper, Nepszabadsag, admitted that Kadar's Hungarian Socialist Workers' party has attracted only 103,000 members in two months of intensive recruiting throughout the country.

The party was established as successor to the Hungarian Communist party a few days before the Russian troops put Kadar in power Nov. 4. Eighteen months before, Matyas Rakosi, the Stalinist party boss now living in Russia, claimed the Hungarian Communist party had 64,000 members.

Kadar is seeking members to bolster his position when he begins promised negotiations to try to bring non-Communist political leaders into his government.

Development Group Gets a Charter

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A charter has been issued to the Arkansas Business Development Corp., a new stock selling company which has the purpose of aiding the growth of industry in the state.

Incorporation articles filed with Secretary of State C. G. Hall yesterday showed $200,000 of paid-in capital. Sale of 500,000 shares of stock to the public at $2 per share was authorized in the articles.

Alan Springer of Little Rock, one of the incorporators, said part of the proceeds would be used to finance expansion or construction of domestic industries.

He said some portions of the funds would be invested in municipal or other bonds issued in Arkansas.

Other incorporators were Robert W. Griffin of Little Rock and Carroll Wharton of El Dorado.

Hunt Continues for Young Sisters

CHICAGO (AP) — Police intensified their search today for two missing teen-age sisters who failed to return home last Friday night after leaving to attend a movie.

More than 150 policemen were directly involved in the hunt for the girls Barbara Grimes, 15, and her sister Patricia, 14.

Capt. John McCarthy said police have investigated scores of reports that the girls had been seen in various places in the city and suburbs. However he said, police concentrated their work to the city's South Side in the belief that the girls are staying close to home.

Miami Maps Segregation Action Course

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The city of Miami, faced with the ruling of a federal judge that its bus segregation laws and those of the entire state are unconstitutional, set the city attorney to work today studying what, if anything, will be the next move.

The city attorney George S. Okell, said that if he "decided it's a waste of time" he won't file any answer.

The ruling, made orally by Judge Emmet Choate yesterday apparently caught everyone off guard. It came during what is ordinarily prehearing maneuvering in such cases.

No actual cases of integrated seating were reported last night.

C. E. Graves, attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said he went to court yesterday thinking "the judge was going to convene a three-judge court and have us go to trial."

It was not immediately clear whether any state laws were invalidated.

The suit was brought by Graves for four Negro women who complained that their constitutional rights were violated when they were told to move from the front to the rear of a bus last October. It named as defendants the Miami Transit Co., the city of Miami and the individual city commissioners.

Choate, who had been hearing a motion of the defendants to dismiss the case, told all the attorneys:

"This is merely a suit to determine the validity of segregation on buses. I think that's been decided."

He cited the recent ruling of the U. S. Supreme Court in the case of the Montgomery, Ala., buses. Then he said:

"I have no hesitation in saying that these segregation laws are unconstitutional and hence unenforceable."

He said there was no need for a three-judge panel to sit on the question.

Choate dismissed the Miami Transit Co., which operates the buses, as a defendant but refused to dismiss the city and city commissioners.

U. S. Dollar Took Over for Diplomacy

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Jack Brooks (D-Tex.) said today it looks as if the United States "used lures instead of diplomacy" in trying to bolster the strategic Middle East country of Iran.

Brooks is a member of the House International Operations subcommittee which yesterday used such terms as "lure," "slipshod" and "shocking" to describe America's quarter-billion-dollar aid program to Iran in 1951-56.

Iran, with a 1,000-mile border with Russia and an estimated 13 per cent of the world's oil reserves, is presumably one of the countries thought of in President Eisenhower's plan to thwart any Soviet aggression in the Middle East.

Eisenhower reportedly wants authority for a special 400-million-dollar, two-year aid program for the area, along with standby authority to use troops, if necessary. He is to address a joint session of Congress on the situation tomorrow.

The House subcommittee listed its conclusions from a lengthy investigation of Iranian aid in a report which Chairman Hardy (D-Va.) said was approved in a closed session yesterday.

The subcommittee recommended that Congress take a broad look at the foreign aid program to find out "the extent to which it has departed from its economic role and has become a vehicle for dealing with diplomatic problems simply by writing out annual checks drawn on the U. S. taxpayer."

The congressmen also said foreign aid officials should "reverse the present pattern of deciding on dollar commitments first and actual programs and projects later."

'The Body' Is Found Minus 2 Front Teeth

INDIO, Calif. (AP) — Blonde Marie ("The Body") McDonald, her face bruised and two of her teeth cracked, was found wandering dazedly on the desert in night attire early today, sheriff's deputies reported.

The officers said she told them that two kidnappers had pushed her from a car after a wild ride at 60 and 70 miles an hour from Los Angeles.

Just 24 hours earlier the glamorous actress had vanished from her home in Encino, a Los Angeles suburb. Since then she had three times reported herself abducted in telephone calls to friends.

Riverside County sheriff's deputies gave this account: Richard D. Corn, a truck driver, found a woman clad in night clothes in front of his truck near Cactus City, 17 miles east of Indio.

"I had a hell of a time stopping the truck," said Corn. "She was so hysterical I didn't know what was going on."

Corn took her to Cactus City. He said she was wearing slippers and a house coat over a nightgown.

From Cactus City the actress was brought to Coachella Valley Hospital here, where Dr. Allan Fisher reported her "in good condition, but bruised about the face and head."

Roadblocks immediately were set up around the area in which Miss McDonald was found.

Before she was placed under sedation, deputies said Miss McDonald related that two men with wavy hair, wearing long dark jackets, blindfolded her and took her from her house in Los Angeles about dusk last night.

This evidently was the house to which she was removed from her Encino home early Friday, and from which her telephone calls were made, officers said.

Then they drove her into the desert, she said, and the car a light two-door sedan traveled 60 and 70 miles an hour.

During the ride, "Miss McDonald related, she struggled with the two men around her faces and chest. Deputies confirmed that her nails were broken."

Miss McDonald reported that the two men were probably in their 20s. She said they finally pushed her out of the car on a desert highway and she tumbled down an embankment then saw Corn's truck approaching.

In Los Angeles, "the FBI announced that, after an inquiry, its agents had found no evidence of interstate transportation and thus were not engaging further in the investigation."

Until Corn's truck lights picked up the form of the wandering woman, no clue had been found to Miss McDonald's whereabouts during a day of fantastic developments, in the course of which police candidly expressed puzzlement and some skepticism about Miss McDonald's disappearance.

Antarctic Is the Land of 'Big Eye'

By DON GUY

MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica. This is the land of the 'Big Eye'. The mother club in this Navy Deep Freeze base is Big Eye Club. You automatically join if you try to imitate the sun by staying awake 24 hours a day.

Nobody knows who started the term Big Eye. It's a good name for the glassy stare folks give each other when they meet in the midnight sun. "Big Eye, huh?" you say to the other party, pretending to be on an important mission yourself.

Actually you are on your way to the mess hall to see if there is an unscheduled Big Eye movie. The other fellow is probably trying to find a poker game.

For the first time in history people are flying from New Zealand, a land of night and day, 2,250 miles to an Antarctic of continuous daylight.

The sudden change jars the sleeping habits of a lifetime. You can tell the way the birds stand around outside late at night wondering whether a climb up Observation Hill would make them tired enough to feel like sacking down.

The old-timers have given up attempting to outlast the sun. They are inside the windowless Quonset huts trying as C.W.O. Walter C. Ahlin Jr. puts it, "to get back on a sleeping schedule even if they stay awake all night in the attempt." Ahlin, in charge of photo mapping and a veteran of many flights, over unexplored areas in the Antarctic, is from East Greenwich, R. I., and Arlington Mass.

On previous expeditions to Antarctica it took weeks for a ship to battle its way through the stormy oceans and pack ice that rings the continent. The transition to constant daylight was gradual.

Today you climb aboard a bit Air Force Globemaster at Harewood Airport, Christchurch, N. Z., in mid-afternoon and land on an ice strip runway about 11 hours later.

By the time you have eaten early breakfast in chow hall and unpacked your gear the rest of the camp is in full stir. A night's sleep was lost without being missed.

The first afternoon is the critical period. If you succumb to a brief nap, all is lost. You awake so refreshed you stay awake all night and the Big Eye Club has a new member.

Swimsuits to swim and sun in either now (on a winter vacation) or later (next summer) are ready now. These suits show the influence of resort daytime and evening fashions. Leaning on shiprail, this girl wears (left) cabana-striped swim sheath by Spillat, in an elasticized wool knit. Neckline and shoulder straps are in a black boucle braid. The Empire line appears (center) in bamboo-striped swim sheath with bow to emphasize the Empire bustline. Waffle pique luster suit (right) is in white, is edged with turquoise tulle. The tulle is embroidered in white. These two suits are by Grace Arcuri for Sea Nymph. Sleek lines and figure control typify these new suits. — By GALE DUGAS, NEA Women's Editor.

DOROTHY DIX

Mother Must Realize Husband Comes First

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm 20 years old, my husband is 28. We were married nearly two years ago by a justice of the peace. My mother wouldn't give her consent to our marriage, so we eloped.

My mother and I had been very close, so my sudden marriage was a great shock to her. Every time I went home for a visit, we had another argument over my husband. He's a good man; doesn't drink and gives me all his pay. My family never would see his good points, and they finally won me over to seeing a lawyer.

My folks, of course, have been very pleased since we parted, but I'm just beginning to realize what a gem of a husband I have. I still love him, though I won't admit it to my mother. As you see by now I have always tried to please mother instead of my husband.

Obviously, all three of us — husband, mother and me — can't be happy. Which should it be?

Dear Arlene: You'd be surprised at how happy your mother will be — when she finally acknowledges the fact that she is no longer top man on the totem pole. Give her a grandchild to cuddle and she'll be ecstatic.

It has taken a brief separation to show you and your husband how thoroughly in love you are. You've learned the hard way that adjustments are to be made; now it's Mom's turn.

Be perfectly frank with her. Admit that your return home was due not to loss of conjugal love, but to her tyranny. Announce your intention of henceforth being a wife first, a daughter second. Assure your mother that you won't love her less, nor will you be neglectful, but home fires get the first match.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I had a date with a boy who was going steady, but I didn't know it. After several dates, he told me he liked me very much, and was no longer going steady. Now he's back with his old girl and won't even speak to me. I still like him. What can I do?

LILA
Dear Lila: To boy hasn't done very much to impress you with his character. He was cheating on his steady and will do the same to you, if you have the misfortune to get him back. Furthermore, he is exhibiting deplorable manners in his "not speaking" attitude. Take a long look at his less attractive qualities, and I doubt if you'd have him back.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a widow, and have been going with a man for a year. He makes himself quite at home in my house, has helped with many repairs and alterations, but has never mentioned marriage. My only son will be ready for college this fall, there is money set aside for his education, and he is certainly bright enough to qualify. However, my boy friend does not approve of college educations and believes the boy should go to work immediately. In fact, he says if I send the boy to college, he'll have nothing more to do with me.

LAURETTA
Dear Lauretta: You have a very bright, ambitious son. If you sacrifice for the whim of a man whose only interest in you is what he can get in the way of meals and company, you are a poor mother, indeed. Don't worry, though. Your boy friend won't leave as long as the food is good.

Dear Dorothy Dix: How can a girl win in the world? If you don't park on a first date, you don't get asked out again. If you give in, the boys don't call again, either.

POLLY O.
Dear Polly: Keep trying, and hang onto your standards. One of these days you'll meet a nice young man with ideals who will appreciate the right girl.

Democratic Advisory Group in Session

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic Advisory Committee set up to advance a party program between elections holds its first session today with a slim attendance in prospect.

However, three of the party's top figures — former President Harry S. Truman, Adlai E. Stevenson and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt — are to be on hand.

Stevenson yesterday aimed a shaft at his party's congressional leaders who largely are boycotting the advisory group.

He said "To be an effective opposition, the Democratic party must have a broader base than the Democrats in Congress," adding:

"We can't be an effective opposition party just every four years for a couple of months."

Truman, arrived in Washington last night, declined comment.

Nine of the 11 senators and representatives named to the advisory committee by Democratic National Chairman Paul A. Butler have indicated they will not serve, a national committee aide said.

Many of these are understood to feel that it is up to them to develop the Democratic program and make the party's record.

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), in declining Butler's invitation, and he felt the legislative process already was involved enough without the intrusion of a committee that has no legal status.

But both he and Speaker of the House Rayburn (D-Tex.), who also declined, said they would be glad to consult with and receive the ideas of the committee.

Creation of the advisory group was sparked by a group of militants in the Democratic Executive Committee after the Nov. 3 election. These urged that the party develop its own programs to counter those put forward by the Eisenhower administration.

Others expected to attend today's session include Governors Averell Harriman of New York and G. Mennen Williams of Michigan. Mrs. Roosevelt has agreed to advise with the committee but not to serve as an official member.

The only two lawmakers who agreed to become members of the group Senators Keftauver (D-Ten.) and Humphrey (D-Minn.) also may be on hand, but only briefly. Both must be in the Senate most of the afternoon for the battle over anti-lobbyist rules.

Service Held for Congress President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and many other top government figures attended a special service held at the National Presbyterian church for the new Congress convening today. Secretary of State Acheson, as one of the ruling elders of the church, served communion to the President, who is a member of the church.

Ten congressmen also helped serve communion as elders. Other legislators were in the congregation. The traditional service is held every two years to solicit divine guidance and blessing at the start of each new Congress.

The National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., the country's largest interdenominational Protestant organization, joined in sponsoring the ceremony of prayer and the symbolic partaking of bread and wine. The minister, the Rev. Edward L. R. Elson, offered a prayer for the nation, the President the Congress for all in authority and for the Church peace and courage and divine guidance.

He prayed for divine help to the President for "clear insight and firm justice" in his decisions and to senators and representatives so that "peace and happiness, truth and justice, virtue and piety may be established among us." He also prayed for those persons in foreign countries, especially in Hungary and Poland, "who still seek light and freedom."

Hollywood in Arms About Tax Collector

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood is up in arms about the tax collector. That's nothing new, but this time the own is doing something about it.

The internal revenue boys tossed a bombshell at Hollywood a few weeks ago. Without aid of legislation, the department issued a ruling that corporation that offer "personal services" will be taxed, retroactively to 1954, at income tax levels.

Why was Hollywood so sups at by this? Because it meant that companies set up by stars, producers, directors and writers would have to give up to 95 per cent of their profits to Uncle Sam, instead of the usual 52 per cent for most corporations.

This could conceivably wipe out the majority of independent producers or send them scurrying about. The companies of such stars as Burt Lancaster, Frank Sinatra, Kirk Douglas, Bing Crosby, Marilyn Monroe, Desi Arnaz, Lucille Ball etc., could be in jeopardy.

For once Hollywood united to fight. The actor, producer, writer, director manager and craft organizations of both the film and TV industries combined to present a strong front against the new ruling.

The groups declared that the proposal would "tend to regard motion picture production in the U. S. and may cause removal of such production to foreign countries."

Said a top-notch film lawyer recently: "Why should the government continue to give favoritism to men who discover oil on their property or own timber land and discriminate against people who act or write novels. Aren't those who entertain us and add to our national culture deserving of a tax break?"

"If the government would give the artists a break the result would be a spurt of creative activity that would provide work for many people and raise the quality of movies and television."

Ike to Make Proposal on Disarmament

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has told the Russians the United States will make "further proposals" on disarmament at the United Nations. But he has rejected, for the present at least, a Soviet proposal for five-power talks on the problem.

The White House last night made public Eisenhower's reply to a Nov. 17 message from Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin. In that message, Bulganin had suggested that leaders of the United States, Russia, Britain, France and India sit down together to seek ways to bring about disarmament.

Britain and France reportedly have sent Moscow similar rejections. In his reply Eisenhower welcomed Bulganin's "apparent willingness" to consider even a limited form of the aerial inspection, which this country has been urging since Eisenhower first proposed it at the 1955 Geneva summit conference. Previously, the Russians had opposed any such plan.

But Eisenhower shot back at what he referred to as the Soviet "attempt to dismiss as a 'slandorous campaign' the world's indignant reaction to Soviet armed actions against the people of Hungary."

On both the disarmament and Hungary matters, Eisenhower challenged the Russians to work through the United Nations. He told Bulganin that in his belief "deliberations within the framework of the United Nations seem most likely to produce a step forward in the highly complicated matter of disarmament." In this connection, Eisenhower said the United States "will make further proposals" on the subject at the U. N. He did not say what those proposals would be.

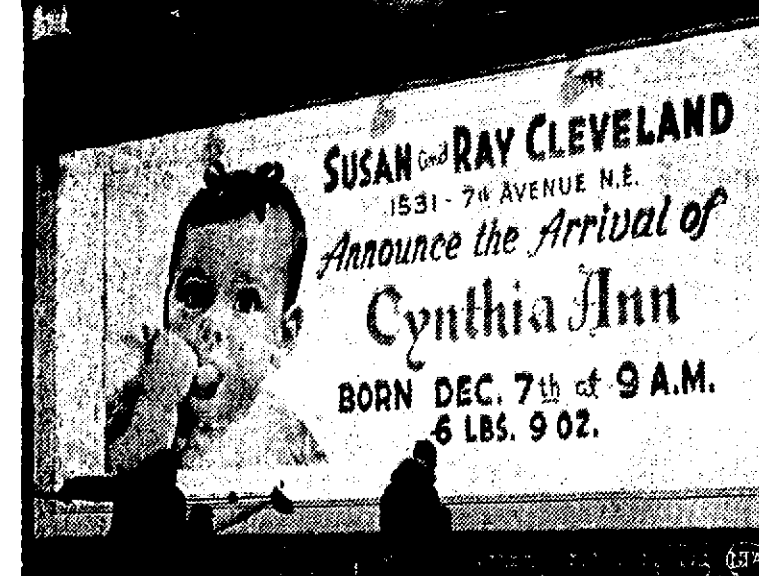

Eden Rejects Plan for Disarmament

LONDON (UP)—British Prime Minister Anthony Eden today joined France in rejecting "in the present circumstances" a Soviet request for a five-power disarmament conference.

Eden's action, announced by the foreign office, followed the lead set yesterday by President Eisenhower and matched by a similar French rejection today in Paris.

A foreign office spokesman said Eden's rejection of a five-power conference was contained in a note sent to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and released here today.

The five nations suggested by Russia were the Soviet Union, Britain, France, the United States and India. Britain hinted yesterday it would reject the invitation. The action was announced as Eden met with his cabinet for the first time this year to seek answers to dangerous challenges to his own leadership at home and to Britain's leadership abroad.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By Warren Page
Shooting Editor

By official count, 18,763 letters have this year come to arms servicers like myself on the question: Does a short barrel on a shotgun mean less power than a long one? So, for the 18,764th time the answer is set forth: No.

This concern over the relationship of the length and pellet wallop has all the earmarks of a national phobia, a phobia being a fear of something which isn't.

In the first place shotgun "power" is more a matter of pellet count than it is of pellet speed, as far as normal shooting ranges are concerned. In other words, whether or not the duck comes down depends far more on the number of shot hitting him than on roughly 1,300-1,350 feet per second, it does on among those shot.

In the second place, so long as we consider shotgun barrels of normal length, there isn't any significant difference in shot speed. Quite some years back the white-coated technicians in DoPon's Birdside Laboratory and the tests have recently been duplicated by the Remington ballisticians, armed with all manner of electronic gadgetry — ran checks on scattergun barrels from 30 inches in length back to 22. Their conclusion was that with the same loads, and the same amount of choke or muzzle construction for each of barrel chopped off the shot pellets, averaged between 6% and 7% fewer feet per second over a 40-yard range.

In other words, the velocity out of a 20-inch barrel such as we usually like for upland game ran about 25-30 feet per second slower than the same load would give out of a 30-inch waterfowl barrel. That's peanuts, when we consider that all of today's high-based shells start their pellets at roughly 1,300-1,350 feet per second.

And note I said, roughly. It just isn't possible to load shells so that the speed registered by shells out of the same box ticks off closer than plus or minus 50 foot-seconds; and quite obviously some pellets in a charge, those that are deformed or slowed in jamming through the choke, don't go as fast as the fastest ones.

Fast Highways Bring More Deaths

By The Associated Press

It is surprising what it takes to set the stage for most Arkansas highway deaths. "Give them a straight, level highway, a clear day and a lot of horsepower," says Capt. Jack Rhea head of the State Police Safety Division, "and they'll run into each other."

The superhighway is more of a threat to safe driving than the pumpy, winding, narrow road.

"The run from Little Rock to Benton is a good example," said Capt. Rhea. "That used to be a slow drag. Now, with the new highway, it's a fast drag."

The result is an upswing in the number of highway fatalities.

Arkansas recorded 483 traffic deaths in 1956, second highest mark on record. In 1941 there were 503 traffic fatalities. The count in 1955 was 416, which pointed the way upward for the 1956 toll.

Motorists today find themselves in the midst of a strange combination that Rhea calls "modern vehicles, semi-modern highways and obsolete driving habits."

In other words, he says, "too much horsepower and too little control."

The wide, straight and smooth stretch of highway, fast becoming less of a rarity in Arkansas, leads the driving to take advantage of the horsepower in his late model automobile and turn loose of the control needed to guide a car at high speeds.

State Police Director Herman Lindsey says Arkansas needs 75 more troopers for the highways, almost double the present force of 33, to curb the rising count of highway fatalities.

The ideal highway police force for Arkansas would be 300 troopers he says. Lindsey pointed to Maryland, a state about one-fifth the size of Arkansas with the same as Arkansas. Maryland has 300 highway troopers.

"We have the uniform license law," Lindsey says, "and I believe it is adequate. What we need is sufficient personnel to enforce the law."

2 Negro Babies Die in Fire

ARKADELPHIA, (AP)—Two Negro babies died in a fire which destroyed a house about eight miles east of here yesterday.

Coroner E. H. Murray identified the victims as 18-month-old Sarah Mae Jones and 3-month-old Fred Louis Jones. Their mother, Virgie Mae Jones, told officers she was hanging out wash when she saw the frame dwelling erupt in flames.

Two other Jones children escaped, Sheriff Buren Hardin said. Origin of the fire was not known.

and listened. It began to seem as if Aunt Cordy's smothering protective love had only produced in Marcy a strong determination to develop and retain her own personality. "If that were true, she would in no degree offer herself as a substitute for Cass with the sick woman."

"You look fine," Marcy old her mother. Aunt Cordy lifted her helpless right arm with her left hand. "I know you've been sick," said Marcy, and turned to leave the room. "I'm staying around for a while."

She wasn't flip, or unfeeling—she just didn't have any more to say. Alex lifted an eyebrow to Cass. "She doesn't chatter like she used to," he said.

"Fast talk, he means," laughed Marcy. "I used to rattle along with the best of them."

It was supper time and they went out to the table. The talk for a while concerned Aunt Cordy, with some mention made of the difficulties her condition entailed. "Cass takes her behavior much more patiently than I would," said Alex.

"Oh, I probably," said Marcy. "Heavens yes!" agreed her brother.

They were very much alike, Cass had decided. Marcy was blonde; Alex had black hair. But the features of their faces were as identical as is possible with a pretty woman and a virile man. Both had away of smiling with their eyes more often than with mouth and cheek muscles. That gave them a certain air of reserve.

"We've always fought with Aunt Cordy," Marcy now told Cass. "I was noisy about it. Alex was more quiet. But we both fought with her."

Tobacco Has Bearing on Lung Cancer
LONDON (UP)—Sixteen investigations in seven countries have proved the risk of lung cancer rises in proportion to the amount of tobacco a person uses, Dr. E. L. Wynder of New York City said today.

Writing in the authoritative British medical journal, Wynder said he drew his conclusions from a study of smoking habits of more than 6,000 persons suffering from lung cancer.

"In the final instance it must become the function of the public health services of different countries to evaluate the data at hand and, if convinced by the evidence that tobacco plays a part in the development of lung cancer, decide whether lives are more important than economic considerations," he said.

The physician commented "Ideally the problem could be largely overcome by banning the use of tobacco. It is evident, however, that because of economic factors and because of firmly entrenched habits, such advice is not likely to be heeded, regardless of how strong the evidence."

"Present incidence data indicate that some 80 per cent of all lung cancer cases occurring in males today would not have occurred were it not for tobacco smoking and that about 10 per cent of males over the age of 20 who smoke in excess of 20 cigarettes daily will develop lung cancer by the age of 75," he concluded.
